

FOOT & ANKLE FELLOWSHIPS

Each year, the OrthoCarolina Foot & Ankle Institute offers a prestigious Foot & Ankle Fellowship featuring a full range of adult foot and ankle teaching opportunities. This includes, but is not limited to, adult reconstruction, arthritis, trauma, diabetes, dysvascular foot difficulties, sports injuries and rehabilitation issues related to the foot and ankle. We offer the full scope of operative and non-operative approaches to adult and adolescent foot and ankle problems. Amateurs and professional athletes alike seek foot and ankle care at the prominent OrthoCarolina Foot & Ankle Institute. This Fellowship program requires independent thought and action, includes research and Resident teaching at the Carolinas Medical Center Residency Program, and is supported by a well staffed Fellow's clinic. The Fellowship originated in 1993 and over 33 physicians from around the world have trained in Charlotte. The present teaching staff and faculty includes Dr. Robert Anderson, Dr. Hodges Davis, Dr. Bruce Cohen and Dr. Carroll Jones.

Dr. Cohen serves as the Fellowship Director. Three fellowship positions are available for orthopedic surgeons who have completed an approved orthopedic residency-training program. Applications will only be accepted from physicians licensed to practice medicine in the United States who participate in the San Francisco Match (www.sfmatch.org). Your application must be submitted through the AOFAS (www.aofas.org). The deadline to submit applications to this program is December 1st for the 2012-2013 program year. If you are a resident who is interested in the program, please contact Patricia Holevas, Fellowship Coordinator, at patricia.holevas@orthocarolina.com.
