

April Hibbeler, MS, OTR/L

Bio

My goal for every client is to help them regain their physical and emotional health after an injury by using hands-on techniques and exercises. I want to teach and guide clients through the rehab process so that they can get back to the activities that make them happy, faster. I design individual treatment plans based on current research and one-on-one conversations with clients so that I address the issues that are important and relevant to them.
